

The Election of 2020

The election of 2020 was largely determined in the Mid-West where Biden won in key states by up to 2.8%.

It is clear, however, why Trump thought the election was stolen from him.

Trump made historic gains in the economy which determines most elections as well as in fostering world peace and ending the endless wars.

From his basement Biden told the energy workers in Pennsylvania that he was going to take away about a hundred thousand fracking related jobs. Later he flip-flopped on that and the election results would imply that a surprising number of Pennsylvanians trusted him.

Trump brought manufacturing jobs back to Michigan while Biden told the auto workers of Michigan that we needed to send them back to China.

Biden told the avid hunters of Wisconsin that he was going to take away their guns but apparently they voted for him anyway.

Biden told the large majority of Mid-Western Americans who disapprove of late term abortion that he was going to greatly increase dismemberment by eliminating the Hyde amendment and the Mexico City policy. Evidently, many pro-lifers voted for him anyway.

On the other hand, Attorney General Barr said that, as yet, no election fraud has been proven at a level that would reverse the election and this is undoubtedly true as confirmed by many courts.

However, enough evidence of illegal activity on the part of election administrators and voters has been uncovered to justify an in-depth investigation for the sake of future elections. This effort will, necessarily, have to continue well into the Biden administration. The 2020 election could have been reversed if 3% of votes in Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Wisconsin were fraudulently cast.
